Keep Spokane Moving - Let's Finish What We Started

For over 50 years, the Spokane community has talked about building a North-South freeway. Now, the first portion of that dream has become a reality, yet many of our citizens don't even know about it. Or if they do, they don't believe they will see the rest of it completed within their lifetime.

Keep Spokane Moving is a regional education and public relations campaign aimed at making sure that does not happen. By educating the public, generating enthusiasm and creating a "can-do" attitude about the project, we can show our elected officials and state leadership that the community supports this project and wants it finished.

Our biggest obstacle is funding. With over $1.6 billion in remaining project costs, including $35 million in "shovel ready" work, we must pursue every option available to secure those funds. This includes working with local, state and the federal government to ensure that this project is given priority status for our region. Additionally, our elected officials must carry the message back to Olympia and Washington D.C. that this is our road - our future - our priority.

About the US 395 North Spokane Corridor

When completed, the North Spokane Corridor will be a 60-mile per hour, limited access highway with a direct connection from I-90 to US 395 at Wandermere.

As a major freight route that feeds directly into Canada, including Calgary, Edmonton and Oil Sands Region, the US 395 corridor carries over 7.2 million tons of freight ($13.5 billion) annually through Spokane. By diverting this freight away from our surface streets, the corridor will improve safety, reduce pollution and gas consumption, and save drivers approximately $28 million per year in reduced travel time.

The project will also provide a facility for balanced transportation including park and ride lots to support transit and vanpooling operations, as well as an expanded and enhanced pedestrian/bicycle facility.

For more information about the project, please contact WSDOT directly: Al Gilson, Public Information Officer gilsona@wsdot.wa.gov (509) 324-6015
